Cleaning-Up-Sale

OF

Remnants and Odds and Ends!

As a result of a very successful January Sale, we have heaps and piles of remnants of all kinds of goods—Remnants of Dress Goods, Gingham, Table Linens, Embroidery, Laces, Ribbons, etc., which we are going to clean up at remnant prices.

Also we offer broken lines in all Ready-to-Wears—Suits, Coats, Dresses, Waists, House Dresses, Muslin Underwear, slightly soiled, Solid Lace Curtains—all these at prices that will clean them up promptly.

All our Shoes to be closed out to discontinue this department.

This is a sale that will appeal to every economical woman.

Come early and get choice of the bargains.

Senator Thomas to Meet Auto Owners.

With a view of discussing the Newcomb bill now pending in the Kentucky Legislature, Senator Claude M. Thomas will meet the automobile owners of this county at the court house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and earnestly request all owners, users and automobile enthusiasts to be in attendance.

To these interested in the Newcomb bill, the provisions of which are calculated to work a hardship to the owners of automobiles and the auto interests, the meeting will no doubt prove very interesting.

Considerable pressure has been brought to bear upon Senator Thomas to oppose the passage of this measure. Petitions containing the signatures of all the automobile owners in this county have been forwarded to him, together with those of a number of the most prominent citizens of the county, and the resolutions adopted by the Bourbon Motor Club at the meeting held in this city Monday urging him to oppose the measure.

Aside from the action taken by the Bourbon and Fayette Motor Clubs, a number of owners in Maysville, Winchester and Nicholasville held meetings, condemned the drastic provisions of the measure and appealed to their Senators and Representatives in the Legislature to oppose the passage of the bill.

All automobile owners are requested to assemble at 1:30 p. m. before the meeting to give in their names for membership in the club and to get posted on the bad clauses in the infamous Newcomb Automobile Bill and to oppose the bill in toto.

Alleged Murderer Captured.

William Kidd a negro wanted at Cynthiana on a charge of murder was arrested by Deputy Sheriff J. O. Marshall Tuesday morning at the railroad camp in the South yards of the Louisville & Nashville railroad and lodged in jail. The arrest of Kidd was made at the instance of the Harrison authorities, and the local officers have been on the lookout for the alleged murderer for several months. Deputy Sheriff Marshall received information that Kidd was in the railroad camp and placed him under arrest. The negro is alleged to have killed a negro companion at a railroad camp near Garnett Station on the L. & N. last August and has since been at large. His victim was an Alabama negro. Deputy Sheriff Marshall went to Cynthiana Tuesday afternoon where he turned his prisoner over to the Harrison authorities.

May Build in the Early Spring.

That the S. H. Kress Co., of New York, contemplate the erection of a modern business house upon the site of the old Baptist church at the corner of Main and Sixth streets, is evidenced by the information given out by their local agent, Mr. Lee T. Beall.

According to Mr. Beall, when the company purchased the property they had under construction fifteen buildings in various cities throughout the United States and the construction of the business house in this city, would follow when they are completed.

It is expected the erection of the building in this city will begin sometime in the early spring. At present the S. H. Kress Co., is operating over one hundred and thirty stores throughout the United States. The lot upon which the proposed building will be located faces 66 feet 8 inches on Main street and runs back an equal depth. The structure will be three stories in height, the lower floor to be used as a storeroom by the company, which will conduct a five and ten cent store, and the remainder of the building will be leased as office rooms.

Faced Coal Famine.

Delayed shipments of coal the early part of the week almost caused a coal famine in this community, and up to this date the steady drain occasioned by the cold weather has not been fully relieved. For several days many of the yards only had a limited supply which was carefully conserved.

Goes East.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simon, of the Simon Department Store, left yesterday for the East where they go to purchase the early spring showing of fine millinery, suits, dress goods, etc., for their beautiful store. Mr. Simon stated that it was his intention to buy one of the largest stocks for early spring and summer he has ever purchased. The new goods will begin to arrive in about two weeks. To make room for this new stock Mr. Simon announces in his regular advertisement a "Cleaning Up Sale" of odds and ends, quantities of remnant of dress goods and wash goods, gingham, table linens, embroidery, laces, ribbons, etc. The remnants must be cleared out and they are going to be sold at real remnant prices. Also large stock of ready-to-wear suits and cloaks also go in this sale. Slightly soiled waists and underwear at bargain prices, also some handsome lace curtains in this lot. The shoe department is to be discontinued and every pair must go.

Mr. Simon has left orders behind to his manager and clerks to clean up this stock and to do it at once. If the ladies of Paris desire real bargains they should take advantage of this big clean up sale.

Some of the spring suits will begin to arrive the first of the week. Don't place your order until you have visited this store.

Don't overlook the millinery department this spring for the display no doubt will eclipse all former efforts.

FREE SAMPLE CURED OLD PERSON'S BOWEL TROUBLE

One of the most remarkable proofs of the unusual laxative merit contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is that it is effective not only in people in the prime of life, but at the extremes of ages. As many letters are received from mothers regarding the cures of children, as from men and women of sixty, seventy and eighty years of age. It must be truly a wonderful laxative.

In the cure of constipation and bowel trouble in old people it has no equal. It corrects the constipation, dispels the headache, biliousness, gas, drowsiness after eating, etc. People advancing in years should see to it that their bowels move freely, and if they do not to take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can prolong your life by healthy bowel action. Clogged bowels invite disease. Women about to pass the menstrual period cannot do better than use Syrup Pepsin several times a week until the system has settled to its future condition.

Among the strongest supporters of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are Mr. W. G. Zorn of New Decatur, Ala., and Mr. George S. Spaulding of the National Soldiers' Home, Kansas, both elderly men. The regular size bottles can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar, but a free sample bottle can be had by sending your address to the doctor.

Address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 402 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Up to the Governing Body.

It is now up to the State Central Committee to decide whether or not there shall be a primary in the Seventh District on March 16. The call for a meeting to be held in Frankfort last Monday only brought out four members of the committee, those who were opposed to Congressman Cantrill, his five coherents absenting themselves for the sole purpose of breaking a quorum.

It was noised about by the politicians here that there would be no meeting of the committee and the prophecy came true in the extreme. The Cantrill coherents wanted the call to stand and as their presence would have made a quorum they remained away for no other reason other than to prevent the meeting.

The anti-Cantrill members of the committee, sent on the wild goose chase to the Capital, made something of their trip when it became apparent there was nothing else to be done adopted resolutions condemning the action of the members of the committee in calling the primary, and appealed to the State Central Committee, as a last resort to take action.

The action of the Cantrill Committee in failing to respond to the call, was purely a political trick of which no doubt Cantrill is at the head, and we can see but the one object, that being to let matters stand as they are, and let the primary be pulled off at the time scheduled and to suit the Scott county candidate.

The matter will be put up to the State Central Committee and its action will be awaited with a great deal of interest. Whichever course they decide upon must be acceptable to the Democrats in the Seventh District. However, it is the earnest hope that they will annul the call of the District Committee and set a later date. The resolutions adopted at the meeting of the four anti-Cantrill members of the Committee held in Frankfort Monday are as follows:

Whereas, the Democratic District Committee for the Seventh Congressional District of Kentucky, at a called meeting held in Frankfort, Kentucky, on the 15th day of January 1912, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Congress therein, to be voted for at the regular November election 1912; and,

Whereas, such call was only made or issued by virtue and because of the participation and vote as a member of this committee, of one who while formerly the member from Oldham county of such committee, had, prior to the date of such meeting, vacated under the laws of the party, his office and position as a member of this committee by accepting and qualifying under an appointment as a state officer; and,

Whereas, such pretended call was made and issued in plain defiance of the mandatory provisions of Section 1563 of the Kentucky Statutes in that the committee, before entering upon the discharge of its duties, was not sworn to faithfully and honestly discharge its duties imposed upon it by law, thereby rendering its act illegal and such proposed primary ineffectual to entitle the person named thereat to a place as Democratic nominee upon the official ballots to be used at the regular election; and,

Whereas, the General Assembly is now in session and has before it bills which in some form appear reasonably certain to become laws, whereby the counties composing this, the Seventh Congressional District, will be increased in number, a compulsory Primary Election law at public expense become operative, and a Corrupt Practice act go into effect rendering it inadvisable, improper and unfair at this time to select a nominee for the district until the counties to compose it are ascertained and permitted to have a voice in the selection of a representative and the enormous expense set out in such pretended call being so great as to prevent many worthy persons from offering as candidates who will be able to do so without expense when such compulsory primary act is enacted; and,

Whereas, such a call was hastily promulgated at a meeting of which reasonable notice was not given, and such notice did not definitely specify the place of meeting and was barren at any intimation as to the purpose or action to be taken at such meeting, resulting in there not being a full meeting of the committee and in depriving the committee of the benefit of the presence, counsel and advice of each and all the members thereof and of the individuals composing the party on the district and interested in its welfare; and,

Whereas, there exists at widespread dissatisfaction among Democrats throughout the district, resulting in mass meetings in divers counties attended by faithful party of adherents at which resolutions condemnatory of such call were adopted and published, the party press has been alienated; and enduring conviction been engendered that such call was adopted not for the party welfare, but in behalf of one candidate only and with the apparent motive of suppressing and stifling opposition to such candidate by fixing the primary for such date as that lack of time and weather conditions would prevent a canvass of the district, and for a date when the members of the party residing outside of the cities could not reasonably be expected to visit the polls, by all of which the continued ascendancy of our party is threatened and the district put in danger of control by the political enemy.

1912, of the proposed primary, and hereby authorize the undersigned, C. C. Clarke, Committeeman from Bourbon county, who was absent from and did not take any part in the meeting at which said pretended primary was called to certify such protest and appeal to such State Central Committee, both for himself and on behalf of all of the undersigned.

Witness our signatures hereto subscribed this 5th day of February, 1912.

MISS BILLIE BURKE IN "THE RUNAWAY."

Charles Forham will present Miss Billie Burke in "The Runaway" at the Lexington Opera House on Friday, February 9.

Miss Burke is already a favorite here as she is in every city in the United States and the announcement of her annual engagement is always looked forward to with eager anticipation by theatregoers of all ages, of both sexes and of every walk of life. To every one her wonderful charm and her remarkable impersonation of joyous, innocent youth brings gladness and a kindlier feeling toward humanity. In that way Miss Burke may be said to be a genuine missionary of cheerfulness and it is surely a title to be envied.

In "The Runaway," her newest success, the critics in the East say Miss Burke appears at her very best. As Colette Ironclad, the heroine of this play, she represents an ingenious little Breton girl, the very personification of gay girlhood inspired by the new awakened spirits of romance and ambition. Brought up by two narrow minded spinster aunts in a provincial village, she bursts the bonds of tradition when they attempt to marry her to a sanctimonious country lout and finds a wider, rarer life in Bohemian Paris and a husband worthy of her in a noted artist old enough, in years, to be her father, but young enough with the perennial youth of genius to be her lover.

It is a beautiful story, simply told and splendidly acted. C. Audrey Smith, the most polished actor England has sent to America, plays the artist and others in the cast are George Howell, Henry Miller, Jr., Morton Seltan, Edwin Nicander, Jane Evans, Josephine Morse and Alice Gale.

The stage setting especially a studio scene, are wonderful examples of scenic art.

Ten-Year Pool Plan Inaugurated

The opening gun of the ten year pooling plan of the Burley Tobacco Society was fired in Maysville Monday afternoon when President Clarence LeBus and Vice President A. L. Ferguson of the Society addressed a crowd of fully six hundred land owners and tenants of Mason and adjoining counties.

While the crowd was exceedingly large and the heads of the Society prevailed upon the growers and tenants to pledge themselves to the ten-year-plan, little enthusiasm was manifested and only a few crops were signed.

However, while the beginning was not very auspicious it is the purpose of the promoters to canvas every district in the Burley belt before the books close for signing on March 1. Officials of the Society will on next Monday address the tobacco growers in Shelbyville, Carlisle and Taylorsville. Some of the most noted speakers will be in the field and an active canvas conducted during the meeting for signatures. A consignment of pledge books will be sent to Mason county in the next few days and that county will be thoroughly canvased. Reports received by the Society at its headquarters in Lexington from the counties are to the effect that there has been an increased interest in the pool.

STOCK, CROP AND FARM NOTES

—There is said to be a movement to establish another loose leaf tobacco warehouse in Carlisle.

—The Boys' Corn Growing Club at Winchester is attracting a great deal of attention in Clark. It is said that Superintendent Lanter expects 100 contestants. More than half a century ago Clark county took the prize in competition with the whole State.

—Howard Gibson, of Scott, sold his farm on the Lexington pike near Georgetown, containing 136 acres to Mr. Wm. Preston, of Lexington, and purchased of his father, J. S. Gibson, 881 acres. The price was private.

—The famous show hog, Artful Master, belonging to Lagan Bryan, of North Middletown, has pneumonia. The hog was undefeated in the show ring last season and Mr. Bryan has refused a handsome price for him. He is being treated by Dr. Frank P. Campbell, of Paris.

—David Prewitt sold publicly at the court house door in Paris Monday the farm of Mrs. L. H. Prewitt, containing 243 acres, lying near Cane Ridge, to Mr. Calvert Meng, of near North Middletown. Price $82.50 per acre. Mr. Ramey, of Mt. Sterling, was the contending bidder. Harris & Speakes conducted the sale.

—Matlack & Shropshire, of Winchester, sold to Col. C. L. Bailey, the four-year-old bay mare, Juniata, by Bourbon Chief, dam by Red Cloud. The price is private but known to be a good one. She was a member of the show stable of that firm last year and took a number of premiums, being exhibited at the Bourbon Fair last September. This is the first saddle animal this firm has sold in the past few weeks at high prices.

—Acting upon the suggestion of Col. W. Showalter, of Scott county, one of the most prominent and influential breeders and thoroughbred owners in the South, the breeders, owners and trainers of thoroughbreds in Kentucky are preparing a petition, to be presented at an early date, to the officials of the racing associations at Juarez and Charleston, where racing is now in progress, urging that the number of races for two-year-olds at those tracks be increased to the extent of one or more each racing day.

—Arrangements are being made at Carlisle for the annual corn show of the Boys' Corn Club and Rural School Fair, of Nicholas county, to be held March 2. There will be a large gathering of educators there on that occasion and some of the leading men of the State will deliver addresses. Samples of the corn raised last season by the boys will be exhibited and prizes awarded. The corn club for 1912 will be organized and seed distributed. A boys' fruit growing contest will be inaugurated and a poultry or flower growing contest for the girls of the rural districts.

—The Mt. Sterling Advocate says: "A sale of finely bred horse stock was held here Thursday by Greene Bros. The best prices were $220 for Greene's Bourbon, by Bourbon Chief, Miss Mag Pearl, by Cecil Wilkes, for $187.50. The other prices ranged from $65 to $145. Twelve head were sold for a total of $1,640, or an average of $136 per head. A pair of aged mules sold for $150. The sale was well attended by local buyers, but no foreign buyers were present."

—On the theory that ministers in rural districts will be better able to perform their duties and get into closer touch with the farmers if they understand modern farm methods, J. W. Newman, Commissioner of Agriculture, will establish a special agricultural school for ministers at the State University in Lexington during July and August next. Each minister will be entitled to a two weeks' course free, and Mr. Newman thinks he will be able to arrange it so that the ministers will not have to pay any board during the time they are in Lexington. Mr. Newman says he has talked to many ministers of the rural districts and the suggestion for a course in agriculture has met with favor.

PUBLIC SALE OF A FINE FARM,

Stock, Crop, Farming Implements, Etc.

On Saturday, February 17, at 10 a. m., on the premises, I will sell at public outcry, to the highest bidder, my farm of 121½ acres, situated four miles from Millersburg, Ky., on the Headquarters and Summit Station turnpike.

The farm is situated 8 miles from Carlisle, and 1½ miles from Headquarters, and is one of the best farms in this section, being highly productive, and all good tobacco land. It contains 45 acres of Blue Grass sod, 20 acres in timothy, 14 acres good clover, balance in high state of cultivation. It has an abundance of water.

The improvements consist of a residence of six rooms, two porches and bath, small tenant house, cabin, large tobacco barn, stock barn, corn crib, carriage house, meat house, hen house, spring house, large spring and splendid orchard. All outbuildings are in first-class repair.

This is a very desirable farm, located in a good farming district, and any one in the market for a farm should not fail to attend this sale.

At the same time and place, I will sell the following stock, crop and implements:

2 brood mares, good workers, 1 6-year-old mare, Red Cloud and King stock, with foal by King Chieftain;

1 5-year-old mare, with foal by Fair Promise;

1 4-year-old mare, 1 3-year-old mare, 1 3-year-old gelding;

2 stud colts by Bourbon Chief, coming 2-year-olds;

2 yearling stud colts, one of them by Fair Promise;

1 extra good milk cow, 4 years old;

4 brood sows and pigs, 13 shoats, will weigh 100 pounds;

1 Poland Chir a boar;

37 sheep with lambs;

Some timothy hay in barn;

1 McCormick Binder, 1 McCormick Mower, 1 McCormick Hay Rake, 1 new Disc Harrow, 1 Check Rower, 2 Wagons, 1 Sled, 1 Buggy, about 14,000 Tobacco Sticks;

Some household goods, and many other things too numerous to mention.

TERMS—On personal property, $25 and under cash, over this amount, 6 months, with good note at 6 per cent interest.

On farm, one-third cash, balance in two equal payments, due in one and two years, with 6 per cent interest, and lien retained on land for deferred payments, purchaser to have privilege of paying a greater amount, or all cash if he so desires. Possession given March 1, 1912.

Again in Newspaper Field.

Ed C. Walton, formerly editor of the Stanford Journal has purchased the Somerset Times from Cecil Williams. For some time Mr. Walton has been engaged in newspaper work in Florida.

Game Called Off.

The basket ball game which was to have been played Wednesday evening in the High School gymnasium between the Paris and Richmond High School teams was called off on account of the illness of two of the members of the Richmond team. The Paris team will go to Richmond tonight where they expect to take the High School boys of that city into camp.

Equalization Board.

The Board of Equalization for the State will meet in Frankfort tomorrow to organize and begin the work of equalizing the taxes of the entire State. The names of the new members of the board have not been given out by Gov. McCreary, although he has made the appointments. He said he wanted to hear from all his appointees before announcing them. The Governor will name four members of the board and there will be holdovers. Woodford W. Longmoor, of Frankfort will be one of the secretaries of the board.

Fire Box Explodes.

A fire box in a large range at the home of Dr. D. S. Henry, on Cypress street, blew out Monday morning scattering fragments of the stove all over the room and the negro cook escaped injury only by leaving the kitchen a few minutes before the explosion occurred. The fire box had frozen during the night and when the cook kindled a big fire in the stove the explosion resulted. Dr. Henry and his family were away from home at the time.

Fire, wind and lightning insurance. Thomas & Woodford.

Wants to Open Saloons.

After being "dry" four years the business people of Lebanon want to return to the saloons. To the absence of saloons is attributed the general stagnation of business and a petition will be circulated calling for an election at an early date.

For Sale Cheap.

One "Leer System" file. In good condition. Will sell cheap for cash. Apply at News office.

Honor Pupils of Fo. d's Mill School.

The examinations for the month of January show the following pupils of Ford's Mill School, taught by Miss Bessie Talbott, deserving of honorable mention: Jennings Taylor, 97; Mabel Galloway 95, Louise Wilcox, 94, Marion Galloway, 94, Estes Sloop 94, Everett Galloway, 92, Jessie Galloway 91, Sherman Gardner 91, Fannie Williams 90, Anna Webb 92.

MRS. THOMPSON'S RECEPTION.

A brilliant reception was that which Mrs. James Harrah Thompson gave Tuesday afternoon for her house guests, Mrs. Anthony J. Carroll, of Louisville, and Mrs. Wm. Berry, of Versailles, and the beautiful young bride of the family, Mrs. Robert Hume Ferguson.

"Woodlawn Villa" is one of the most attractive homes in Bourbon County. Its exquisite furnishings had added beauty in vases of American Beauty roses that looked well against the white and gold background. The entire lower floor was thrown together and was a bower of American Beauties, Killarney roses, pink sweet peas and Lawson pinks, with palms and ferns as a graceful background for all.

The drawing room where the guests were received was entirely in American Beauties. The dining room, with its rich mahogany, was decorated in Killarney roses and sweet peas. The large round table was set with rich Venetian lace and had for a centerpiece a mound of Killarney roses and pink sweet peas surrounded by a lattice of Colporte holding pink sweet peas.

The sun parlor, where champagne punch was served, was lovely in pink carnations, palms and ferns with wall vases of pink and white sweet peas. At a beautifully appointed table Mrs. William Ferguson and Miss Margaret Ferguson served punch.

The library was also lovely in its decorations of Killarney roses and in the room adjoining Mrs. Charlton Alexander presided over the coffee service and Mrs. Miller Ward poured chocolate. This table had for its decorations a tall vase of Lawson pinks and surrounding this were platter of pink and white confections. A delicious luncheon was served to about two hundred guests who responded during the hours. Behind a bank of palms and ferns sweet music was heard from a harp orchestra.

Mrs. Thompson's reception was a tribute to her charm and beauty, for she is very handsome and a most gracious hostess. For this occasion her gown was of pale blue chiffon with trimmings of bands of duchess lace and crystal fringe. She wore a corsage bouquet of sweet violets.

Mrs. Carroll, who was before her marriage the brilliant Miss Sallie Holt, of Frankfort, was handsome in a pale violet gown picked out with delicate lace, and wore a string of pearls around her neck.

Mrs. Ferguson, a petite beauty of the brunette type, was lovely in a gown of white meteor with crystal trimming, and carried a large bunch of sweet violets.

Those who assisted in entertaining were: Mrs. J. M. Hall, Mrs. V. W. Ferguson, Mrs. Earl Ferguson, Mrs. E. P. Clay, Jr., Mrs. Swift Champ, Mrs. Frank Fithian, Mrs. B. A. Frank, Mrs. Cassius M. Clay, Mrs. Ford Ewert, Mrs. Ray Taylor, Mrs. Maggie Clay Ferguson, and Misses Kate Alexander and Bessie Holladay.

Little Misses Alice Rogers Clay and Sallie Holt Alexander, of Louisville, and Master James Thompson, Jr., greeted the guests in the hall.

—The Progressive Culture Club met Wednesday afternoon, the program being in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens. The president, Mrs. Amos Turney, Mrs. W. R. Scott and Mrs. Clifton Ansparger each reading a paper relating to his life, character and works, while each member took some character from his books as the subject of a short talk.

—Miss Nettie Horton, of Montgomery county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Catesby Woodford, near this city.

—Miss Gladys Ashurst has returned to her home near this city after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ecton in Winchester.

—Mrs. Walter Payne and daughter, Eleanor, left yesterday for Warsaw to visit her mother, Mrs. J. J. Payne.

—Mr. John Lair, who has been living in Cynthiana for some time, will in the spring move to his farm in this county to reside.

—Mrs. Withers Davis and little daughter, Anne Jonett, are visiting Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jonett, in Winchester.

—Miss Statie Cheatham, daughter of Mr. Herman Cheatham, of Carlisle, formerly of this city, underwent an operation a few days ago at her home in that city for the removal of adnoids.

—Mrs. Swift Champ gave an auction bridge party yesterday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. James H. Thompson and her guest, Mrs. A. J. Carroll, of Louisville.

There were four tables. The guest of honor prize was a silver tea strainer on a crystal rest. At each of the tables a prize was given for the highest score which were cut glass ice tea glasses. The winners were Mrs. Duncan Bell, Mrs. V. W. Ferguson, Mrs. M. H. Dailey and Mrs. Thompson Tarr.

Mrs. Champ's guests were Mrs. A. J. Carroll, Mrs. Charlton Alexander, Mrs. J. M. Hall, Mrs. James H. Thompson, Mrs. Robert H. Ferguson, Mrs. Henry Butler, Mrs. Frank M. Clay, Mrs. W. E. Board, Mrs. B. A. Frank, Mrs. W. M. Shobe, Mrs. Brice Steele, Mrs. Harry Mathers, Mrs. Duncan Bell, Mrs. M. H. Dailey, Mrs. V. W. Ferguson and Mrs. T. H. Tarr.

Young Women

Read what Cardui did for Miss Myria Engler, of Faribault, Minn. She says: "Let me tell you how much good Cardui has done me. As a young girl, I always had to suffer so much with all kind of pain. Sometimes, I was so weak that I could hardly stand on my feet. I got a bottle of Cardui, at the drug store, and as soon as I had taken a few doses, I began to feel better. Today, I feel as well as anyone can."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Are you a woman? Then you are subject to a large number of troubles and irregularities, peculiar to women, which, in time, often lead to more serious trouble.

A tonic is needed to help you over the hard places, to relieve weakness, headache, and other unnecessary pains, the signs of weak nerves and over-work.

For a tonic, take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

You will never regret it, for it will certainly help you.

Ask your druggist about it. He knows. He sells it.

Over $30 for Every Person.

An equal division of all the money in the United States would result in each man, woman and child possessing $34.61. That amount is the per capita circulation, according to the calculation of the Treasury Department, which estimates that the population of the country has grown from 91,972,266, as determined by the census of 1910, to 94,958,000 on February 1, 1912.

The stock of money in America is fast climbing up into the billions. On February 1 there was $3,621,572,121 in the United States. Of this $3,388,302,481 represented the assets of the government and $3,286,239,640 was in circulation. Thirty-three years ago the entire amount in circulation in this country was $916,266,721.

The Trials of a Traveler.

"I am a traveling salesman," writes E. E. Youngs, E. Berkshire, Vt., "and was often troubled with constipation and indigestion till I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills, which I have found an excellent remedy." For all stomach, liver or kidney troubles they are unequalled. Only 25 cents at Oberdorfer's.

May Buy Remainder of Crop.

T. H. Kirk, of Cincinnati, who purchased three of the big lots of the 1909 crop of the Burley Society is mentioned as a probable purchaser of the remainder of the crop, amounting to something over 12,000,000 pounds. Kirk was in Lexington Tuesday where he went before the executive committee of the Burley Tobacco Society to confer over the purchase of the remaining tobacco, but the body adjourned before making a sale. Neither Kirk nor the members of the committee would discuss the matter. The former returned to Cincinnati and will return to Lexington at a later date.

Flying Men Fall

victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles just like other people with like results in loss of appetite, backache, nervousness, headache and tired listless, rundown feeling. But there's no need to feel like that as T. D. Peebles, Henry, Tenn., proved. "Six bottles of Electric Bitters," he writes "did more to give me new strength and good appetite than all other remedies I used." So they help other people. Its folly to suffer when this great remedy will help you from the first dose. Try it. Only 50 cents at Oberdorfer's.

Good Work of Barnardo Homes.

Nearly twenty-three thousand nine hundred children have now been sent to Canada from England through the agency of the Barnardo homes.

Regular Habits.

It is a good plan to have a regular time for reading. One accomplishes so much more in this way, and besides establishes a kind of intellectual habit that is a good thing in itself. In an hour, or even half an hour given regularly each day to reading, a great deal may be accomplished. Do not confine yourself to serious books. Alternate light with heavy reading, and do not attempt heavy reading when you are tired. Do not read merely to be amused. Treat your books as friend. Do not follow blindly the teachings of any book.

Feminine Curiosity.

Little Eleanor's pretty cousin wore a new engagement ring, and the budding woman regarded the ring and the giver alike with reverent eyes. One night when the happy man has been invited to Eleanor's home for dinner, Eleanor, unconsciously gushing, burst forth with: "Oh, Mr. Blank, do please tell me. In all the love stories I've read the men propose so sudden. When it's coming on, does it—does it feel anything like a sneeze?"

"Preserving" the Baby.

Young James had seen some fish pickled, and was at once impressed and puzzled by the explanation, elicited by a long and steady fire of questions, that the salting process was to make the fish "keep." A little later he attended the baptism of an infant friend and was still puzzled. But at last a light broke in upon him, and in a shrill tone that could be heard all over the sacred edifice he exclaimed: "Oh, now I know all about it, mother. The water is to make the baby keep!"

Sounds Made by Fish.

The skate, when caught, grunts, groans and gasps pretty much after the manner of a human being in distress. Carp and gold fish frequently utter curious sounds, but hardly sounds in the meaning of the term here used, inasmuch as their sounds are produced by approaching the surface of the water and blowing out air in bubbles until a rippling noise is heard.

Indian Killed on Track.

Near Rochelle, Ill., an Indian went to sleep on a railroad track and was killed by the fast express. He paid for his carelessness with his life. Often it is that way when people neglect coughs and colds. Dr. King's New Discovery will cure them and so prevent a dangerous throat or lung trouble. "It completely cured me in a short time of a terrible cough that followed a severe attack of grip," writes J. R. Watts, Floydada, Tex., "and I regained 15 pounds in weight that I had lost." Quick, safe reliable and guaranteed. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free at Oberdorfer's.

That Shining Nose.

At the opera the young man who paid for the seats was engaged for a few tense moments in a study of a stunning woman of middle age who sat in the row in front. Then he turned to the girl at his right, and whispered, "Look at the lady in lavender; what is the matter with her nose?" The girl gave one glance at the shining "neb," then turned to her escort and whispered: "Enameled."

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional issue requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Pool of Flame

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

Illustrations by Elsworth Young

Copyright 1909, by Louis Joseph Vance
SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The story opens at the hotel, O'Rourke, a military figure, is seen for the first time. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER II.—O'Rourke's mind is filled with thoughts of the girl, and when he goes to the gambling table he allows his remarkable winnings to accumulate. He notices two men watching him. One is the Hon. Bertie Glynn, and the other is a man who is a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER III.—At his room O'Rourke, who had agreed to undertake the mission, receives the letter from the French government. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER IV.—When the Irishman goes to his room he finds there the owner of the mysterious feet. It is his wife, and she is a woman of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER V.—O'Rourke is forced to fight a duel with the viscount. The viscount is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER VI.—The loyal wife bids O'Rourke farewell and he promises to soon return with the reward offered for the Pool of Flame. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER VII.—Chambret has left Algeria and O'Rourke has to gain a military detachment going across the desert to reach his friend. As he finds the latter there is an attack by bandits and Chambret is shot. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER VIII.—Chambret dies telling O'Rourke that he has left the Pool of Flame with the governor general of Algeria. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER IX.—O'Rourke is attacked by Glynn and the viscount who ransack his luggage, but he worships them in the conflict. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER X.—When he arrives at Algeria the Irishman finds the governor general away. He receives a note from Dravos making a mysterious appointment. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XI.—The viscount tells O'Rourke that he has gained possession of the jewel by stealing it from the safe of the governor general. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XII.—The efforts of O'Rourke are now directed toward speedily getting to Rangoon with the jewel and he starts by ship. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XIII.—He finds the captain of the vessel to be a smuggler who tries to steal the jewel from him. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XIV.—O'Rourke again forms his plans to pursue his journey to Rangoon. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XV.—On board ship once more a mysterious lady appears who puzzles and interests the Irishman. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XVI.—O'Rourke comes upon a lascar about to attack the lady, who is a Mrs. Prynn. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XVII.—Mrs. Prynn claims she is en route for India on a mission for the king. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XVIII.—The ship captain is offered money to increase the speed of the vessel toward its destination. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XIX.—Looks as if he hadn't a friend in the world, said the man audibly. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XX.—Looks as if a letter from home with cash draft 'ud about fill his little bill. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXI.—He grunted in pleased appreciation of his own subtle wit. A short man he was, stout, very much at home in grimy pajamas and nothing else, with eyes small, blue, informed with twinkling humor and set in a florid countenance bristling with a three days' growth of grayish beard. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXII.—He swung the glasses again upon O'Rourke, and, "Hell!" he exclaimed, staring up with stimulated interest. "Well, by jinks!" said the stout man. "Who'd a-thunk it?" He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXIII.—He got up with evident haste and waddled forward to the bridge, where he came upon what he evidently needed in his business: a huge and battered megaphone. Applying this to his lips and filling his lungs he belabored with a right good will, and his hall, not unlike the roaring of an amiable bull, awoke Aden's echoes: "O-o-Rourke!" He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXIV.—"Good morning," murmured the Irishman, lifting his head to stare about him with incredulous curiosity. "Who's that barking at me?" He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXV.—The pajama'd person continuing to shout at the top of his voice, by dint of earnest staring the Irishman eventually located the source of the uproar. "Now who the divil might ye be?" he wondered. "Ananias, me friend!"—to the boatman—"row to the steamer yonder where the noise comes from." He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXVI.—Whereupon the stout man, seeing that his engines were in admirable condition. Such was their inviolable state. For an assistant he impressed into service none other than Danny Mahone, to Danny's intense dismay. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXVII.—O'Rourke took upon himself the duties of first officer under Captain Quick. The Irishman cared little for the sea, knew less of a first officer's duties; but it was patent that Quick could not stand every watch, and O'Rourke was not to be daunted by any such slight matter as nautical inexperience. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—In the knowledge that they were safely off at last there was poignant relief to the wanderer, as he stood by Quick's side, on the bridge, with mid-night imminent and the ship still and peaceful. "I'll stand the night watches," the captain announced. "By morning we'll be far enough out for you to take hold without spraining the art of seamanship. G'dnight." He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXIX.—"Thank ye," said O'Rourke. In fact, he had long been sensible that he was very drowsy; the night wind in his face had something to do with that. "Good night," he returned, and went down the ladder to the deck. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXX.—At its foot he paused, turning curiously; it seemed that surely there must be some serious trouble afoot in the crew. The Irishman could see in the glimmer of the forecastle lantern a confused blur of naked, shining, brown bodies and limbs, apparently inextricably locked. A scream rang shrill and there followed the sound of a heavy fall. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Overhead, on the bridge, Quick was roaring himself hoarse, without effect. The sounds of shuffling, of blows, harsh breathing, stifled cries, continued. A knot of the contestants swept, whirling, aft, toward the superstructure. Something shot singing through the air; the wind of it fanned O'Rourke's cheek. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXXII.—With an unconscious, surprised oath, O'Rourke stepped aside, his hand going toward his revolver. The missile struck a stanchion, glanced and fell clattering into the scuppers. Revolver in hand, he went forward to the rail overlooking the struggling rabble on the deck below. But they seemed intent only on their private differences, and Quick's roars were bringing them to their senses. Gradually the tumult subsided, the contestants separating and slinking forward to their quarters. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—"It may have been chance," O'Rourke conceded a bit doubtfully. He swung about and moved aft slowly, examining the deck intently. In a moment or two he stopped and picked up a long, thin-bladed knife, double-edged and keen as a razor. The point was broken, having doubtless been snapped off at the moment of contact with the deck-house. O'Rourke turned it over soberly. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

CHAPTER XXXIV.—"Faith, I don't like to think it was intentional—but me head would have been split had it come two inches to the left." He returned to the bridge, calling Quick aside. "You're armed?" "Certainly—always armed when I'm dealing with these devils. Why?" O'Rourke showed him the knife. Quick laughed at his theory. "Nothing in it," he was pleased to believe. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money. He is a man of a certain age, with a certain amount of experience, and a certain amount of money.

With an Unconscious, Surprised Oath, O'Rourke Stepped Aside.

ly. "Very nicely, I thank you." He shook hands, sat down on the edge of a berth with the manner of one who fears he intrudes, and glanced searchingly at Quick. "If you're going to serve the drinks, cap'n," he snapped acidly, "hump yourself!" He accepted his glass with a dispassionate air and drank hastily after a short nod to the guest, as one who sacrifices his personal inclinations to the laws of hospitality. But from his after-glow of benevolence, O'Rourke concluded that the drink had not been unwelcome.

"What brings you here?" demanded Quick in a subdued roar.

"I've a job for ye, if so be it ye're not otherwise engaged—and if ye can do it."

Quick slapped a huge thigh delightedly. "I knew it—could have sworn to it!"

"Can do anything," asserted Dravos with asperity.

"'Tis merely a question of speed," explained the Irishman. "Can ye make Bombay in four days—be the fifth?"

"Dravos," roared Quick, "how much speed can you get out of those damned engines?"

"Twenty knots," snapped Dravos. "When can you sail?"

"To-night," said Dravos. "If," stipulated Quick, "I can pick up a crew in Aden."

"'Tis settled then."

"We'll need a bit of money in advance."

"Ye shall have it, within reason."

Dravos rose and sidled towards the door, a faraway look in his pale eyes. "You strike the bargain, Quick," he said; "I'll have a look around the engine-room."

"Right-O, Bobby. . . . Yourself alone, I s'pose, O'Rourke?"

"And three others. Danny—"

"Yes, yes."

"And two ladies; an Englishwoman and her maid."

CHAPTER XXXII.

By nine o'clock the Rancee lay with steam up, ready to weigh anchor. It is no praise to Dravos to state that his engines were in admirable condition. Such was their inviolable state. For an assistant he impressed into service none other than Danny Mahone, to Danny's intense dismay.

O'Rourke took upon himself the duties of first officer under Captain Quick. The Irishman cared little for the sea, knew less of a first officer's duties; but it was patent that Quick could not stand every watch, and O'Rourke was not to be daunted by any such slight matter as nautical inexperience.

"Certainly—always armed when I'm dealing with these devils. Why?"

O'Rourke showed him the knife. Quick laughed at his theory. "Nothing in it," he was pleased to believe.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The day came out of the East with a windy swagger; as Quick had foretold, a series of thunderstorms swept the sea before dawn, so that it, like the sky, seemed newly washed, clean and brilliant.

O'Rourke relieved Quick at four bells of the morning watch and kept the deck for the remainder of the day, his meals being brought to him on the bridge. His duties were simple enough, requiring little more than a display of the habit of authority which sat so well on his broad shoulders. It was no great trick to keep the crew in order; they went about their work peacefully enough and showed no signs of desiring to renew their disputations. Otherwise he had to keep an eye upon the helmsman and see that he held the Rancee to the course prescribed by Quick; and that was nothing difficult to a man of average intelligence. Naught but deep water lay between them and Bombay, so long as a direct course was shaped and maintained.

As the sunlit watches wore out and nothing untoward took place, O'Rourke's grim apprehensions dissipated into shadows. He began to believe with Quick that the affair of the winged knife was merely a haphazard accident, quite unpremeditated.

Below decks, Dravos and Danny were standing watch-and-watch, with clockwork regularity, where the former's beloved engines were justifying his confidence and pride in them and clicking off their twenty knots without a hitch.

Now Danny happened to have "off" the first afternoon watch. O'Rourke from the bridge saw him come up the engine-room companion ladder, dive into the messroom for his dinner, and later emerge, picking his teeth and grinning self-complacently until his master could have kicked him, had such a course been politic before the crew, or even consistent with the dignity of his office.

"A word to say to ye, sor, if I may make so bold."

O'Rourke glanced at the helmsman, and having long since made up his mind that the man was competent, left him in possession of the bridge for a space, and joined Danny below.

"What is it?"

Danny lowered his voice to a hoarse whisper. "Kape yer eye on that black divil up there, sor, for the love of Hiven, and don't look surprised at anything—"

O'Rourke moved a few paces aft, along the rail, to a point whence he could see the head and shoulders of the helmsman. "Well?"

"'Tis nawthin' I cud swear to, sor, but 'tis meself that's mortal leary av these naygurs—raspicks to ye—and—"

"Come, come! Out with it, Danny."

"Sure, sor, 'tis the serang. Have ye chanced to notice him, sor?"

O'Rourke glanced down to the fore deck, where the personage in question was standing at ease. "What of him?" he inquired, running his eye over the fellow's superb proportions.

"'Tis nawthin' I'd take me oath to, sor, but I'm thinkin' he's the man who boarded the Panjab at Suez, sor. And as for the naygur I run against on the s'loon deck, yer honor, he's his mortal twin."

"Ah," commented O'Rourke. "Thank you, Danny."

He continued to watch the serang until the latter, as if influenced by the fixity of the Irishman's regard, turned and stared directly into O'Rourke's eyes. For a full minute he gave him look for look, dark eyes steadfast and unyielding above his fine aquiline nose, then calmly turned his back, resuming his contemplation of the turbulent horizon.

An instant later Quick came up to relieve O'Rourke, and, eight bells sounding, Danny dived below to take Dravos' place. O'Rourke, unpleasantly impressed by the incident, still forbore to mention it to either of the ship's owners; he retired to think it over, and spent a long hour consuming an indifferent cigar and studying the cracks in the bulkhead between his room and the cabin.

Without profit, however. Lacking more substantial proof than Danny's suspicions, he could arrive at no definite conclusion.

The night passed without incident; the second day dawned the counterpart of its predecessor, and wore away quietly enough.

It fell to O'Rourke to stand the first dog-watch, from four to six in the evening. Shortly after he ascended the bridge, it was his happiness to be joined by Mrs. Prynn, who improved the moment to express her gratification with the propitious tide in her affairs. The King's courier was pleased to declare herself very well pleased indeed, though she admitted, under local pressure, that she considered she was roughing it. Captain Quick's quarters were by no means palatial, and the bill of fare, while substantially composed, lacked something of variety; but that was all a part of the great and fascinating game she played—the game of secret service to His Majesty, Edward VII.

Not that alone, but she was comforted by the assurance that her voyage would soon be over, her mission discharged, her responsibility a thing of the past. She would be glad to see Bombay.

"One never knows, you know, Colonel O'Rourke," she said with a little gesture expressive of her allowance for the unforeseen.

On Peonage Charges

A special term of the United States District Court is being held at London to try the cases of ten prominent and wealthy lumbermen who have been indicted on peonage charges. The defendants, it is alleged, have had workmen prisoners while they worked in the mountains of Kentucky. There are fifty-six counts in the indictments.

Soul the Abode of Truth.

Truth! Where is truth but in the soul itself? Facts, objects are but phantoms; matter-woven ghosts of this earthly night, at which the soul sleeping here in the mire and clay of matter shudders and names its own vague tremors, seise and perception. —Charles Kingsley.

Employees Forbidden to Enter Saloons.

By an ordinance introduced in the City Council at the meeting last night by Councilman Dr. Wm. Kenney, the members of the police force as well as other employees of the city are forbidden to enter saloons and drink while in the discharge of their official duties. The ordinance provided that for the first offense the offending party is to be suspended for a term of thirty days and for the second offense the offending party is to have a hearing before the Council and if the evidence introduced is sufficient the official in the employ of the city shall be dismissed from further service. The ordinance will come up at the next meeting of the Council.

Little business of importance was before the Board. Permits were granted the following: L. Saloshin, one story brick addition to store room at the corner of Seventh and Main streets; W. S. Hughes, permit to erect a $1,000 cottage near the Clintonville pike; Thos. Woodall, permit to erect a $1,200 cottage in Barnes Addition.

Councilman Kenney, as chairman of the Light Committee, addressed the Council in regard to the lighting question which has had much agitation recently. He expressed himself that after an investigation by the Light Committee of the Council in regard to the lighting of the city as being thoroughly satisfied with the conditions, but stated there were complaints from consumers over the city in regard to alleged excessive rates charged. The Light Committee be empowered to make an investigation of the complaints and report to the Council at the next regular meeting.

The light committee is composed of Councilmen Kenney and Baldwin and Speakers and the News is requested to state that any of the private consumers having complaints should file them with Dr. Kenney, chairman of the committee before the next meeting of the Council.

Police Judge E. B. January submitted his report for the month of January to the Board, which is as follows: Amount of fines assessed, $107.50; amount replevined, $12.50; cash collected, $42.50; suspended, $7.50; work-out, $35.

The City Council in regular meeting Wednesday night arranged the electric light schedule for residences and business houses. A rate of one cent a kilowatt will be charged in residences for four lights, and all additional lights will be operated at ten cents each. A straight rate of one cent a watt will be charged business houses. The plant will be operated as late as 11 o'clock and as late as 12 o'clock on Saturday and Sunday night. The salary of Mr. Mitchell who is to operate the plant was also fixed. After allowing a few small accounts the council adjourned.

Another Petition in Circulation.

While several petitions favoring and opposing the amendment to the bill for a constitutional amendment, introduced by Representative Clay, the passage of which would put to a vote of the people an amendment to Section 201, would permit the absorption by railroads of the State lines of less length than one hundred miles, have been forwarded to the committee to which the bill has been assigned, another favoring the passage of the bill is being signed freely here. The petition is as follows:

The undersigned citizens of Paris, Bourbon county, Ky., believing that the effect of the decision of the Court of Appeals in holding that the F. & C. Railroad Company cannot be operated by the L. & N. Railroad Company or the Southern Railroad Company will be of great disadvantage to the people of the counties through which the said F. & C. railroad runs, hereby earnestly petition the General Assembly to adopt the proposed amendment to the Constitution, introduced by Representative Clay, of Bourbon county. This amendment, if adopted, by the people, would permit the operation of a small and helpless railway line by a larger and stronger company and not in the least defeat the purpose of Section 201 of the Constitution.

Many years of experience have shown that the F. & C. Railroad cannot be safely operated as an independent line, and we therefore believe that its operation by the L. & N. Railroad Company would continue to prove as it has done in the last year or two to the best interests of the F. & C. company and to the shippers and traveling public.

We petition the General Assembly to submit his amendment to the people.

It is urged that everyone who would prefer to see the F. & C. railway under the control of the L. & N., which would in all probability extend the line making it profitable to this community and company sign the petition circulating upon the General Assembly to pass the bill introduced by Representative Clay, and can do so by calling at the store of Mitchell & Blakemore.

Straw Vote for President at the Comet Today.

Each person who attends the Comet Theatre this afternoon will be given a chance to vote their preference for the Democratic or Republican nomination for President.

A blank ballot will be given each person purchasing a ticket and after writing the name of their choice it will be deposited in a box, the result to be announced on Saturday.

The parties most prominently mentioned by the two parties are Harmon, Bryan, Wilson, Clark, Taft, Roosevelt, LaFollette and others. Come and vote for your choice and find out who the popular favorite is in Paris.

Teachers' Association Next Week.

What promises to be an occasion of more than ordinary interest will be the Bourbon County Teachers Association which is to be held in the court house in this city on Saturday, February 17. The county Superintendent, Miss Mabel Robbins, is exerting every effort to make the event one of the most successful in the history of the county.

With this object in view she has secured some of the most noted educators in Central Kentucky to address the Association on that date, and of the number that have signified their intention of attending the sessions of the Association and to deliver addresses are Messrs. E. P. Bryan and A. S. McKenzie, of State University, Mr. Stott, of Richmond, Prof. Squires, of Carlisle, Vincent, Frankfort, Coates, Richmond; Cassidy, Lexington; Major C. M. Best, Millersburg, and Miss Anna Hamilton, Dean of State University, Lexington.

Miss Robbins will make an effort to make the occasion a grand educational rally and looking toward this an invitation is extended to all the patrons of the rural schools to attend the sessions of the Association. A special invitation is extended to the boys. It is stated there will be on the program an eminent scholar of the school of Agriculture, and this address will be one especially prepared and delivered to the boys.

At noon the Association will serve lunch to the guests in the basement of the court house.

RELIGIOUS.

—Rev. E. M. Lightfoot will be in his pulpit Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours. The subject for the morning service will be "The Preacher of Repentance," and at the evening discourse he will preach from the subject of "The Healing of a Syrian Leper." The Braca Class, for men only, recently organized, will meet at 9:30 o'clock.

—Elder J. T. Watson, pastor of the Maxwell street church, Lexington, will preach at the Christian church Sunday morning and evening.

MATRIMONIAL.

—County Clerk Paton issued a marriage license Tuesday to Miss Annie Mitchell and Mr. Jack Feeback, both of this county.

—Mr. John H. Reister, Jr., and Miss Laura Elliott, both of Jessamine county, were married at Rev. I. J. Spencer's residence in Lexington Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock by Rev. I. L. Fennell.

The couple left Thursday morning for Cincinnati whence they will go to Chicago and then back to Mr. Reister's home near Wilmore, where they will live.

The bride is a cousin of the late Judge J. D. Ward, of Paris; and also of the late Attorney A. H. Ward, of Cynthiana. She is related to prominent families of Fayette and Bourbon counties.

Mr. Reister is the son of Mr. A. Reister, a prominent farmer of Jessamine county, and is one of the most popular young men in the neighborhood.

DEATH.

—Lacafus Childs, aged 74 years, a Confederate veteran, died at the Confederate Home at Pewee Valley Tuesday night of heart failure. He was born in Harrodsburg in 1838 and entered the Confederate service in 1861. He entered the Confederate home from Lexington two years ago. He is survived by the following nieces: Miss Ophelia Childs, Mrs. Edward Wickliffe and Mrs. Dabney Carr, of Lexington, and Mrs. Henry Spears, of Paris.

—Hon. R. K. Hart, 58 years old, died at Flemingsburg Tuesday morning after a long illness. Mr. Hart was one of the leading Democrats in Eastern Kentucky, having twice represented Fleming county in the Legislature and six years ago was the Democratic nominee for Congressman from the Ninth District. During Governor Beckham's administration he was a member of the State Board of Equalization.

—The remains of Miss Annie Lileston, who died at Kansas City, Mo., Monday, arrived here Wednesday morning accompanied by her brothers, Messrs. Lyford and Henry Lileston. The sudden death of Miss Lileston, which was noted in the last issue of the News was due to an attack of neuralgia of the heart. The body was taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. Selby Lileston from which place the funeral services were held.

For some time Miss Lileston held a responsible position with the John Taylor dry goods firm of Kansas City, but for the last few years had made a home for her two brothers, Messrs. Henry and Lyford Lileston, who are engaged in business in that city.

She is survived by her mother, four brothers and three sisters. They are Mr. Lewis Lileston, of this city, Messrs. Lyford and Henry Lileston of Kansas City, and Mr. Fithian Lileston, of Wichita, Kansas; Miss Mattie Lileston, of Barboursville, Ky., and Misses Blanche and Laura Lileston, of Paris.

The funeral took place at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Selby Lileston, on Higgins avenue Thursday morning at ten o'clock. Services conducted by Rev. J. S. Simms. Burial in the family lot in Paris cemetery. The pall-bearers were C. N. Fithian, James McClure, E. B. January, Lawrence Vanhook, John McCarthy and M. F. Kenney.

THEATRICAL.

"THE COUNTRY BOY."

Henry B. Harris' production of Edgar Selwyn's comedy in four acts, "The Country Boy," will be the attraction at the Paris Grand on Wednesday night, February 21.

The play is an unusual one in many respects and from first to last is thoroughly entertaining.

The play is said to be somewhat out of the ordinary from the fact that it shows that success is not necessarily to be found in that city. Mr. Selwyn's hero, a country boy, goes to New York to gain the name and fame that he, in his simple egotism, believes awaits him. He proves to be a dismal failure. Disappointed with the outcome of his struggle for success, he is about to end his cares and worries for all time.

In this condition he is discovered by a newspaper man, who proves an optimistic friend. The newspaper worker induces him to put his pride in his pocket and to return to his birthplace, and take up his fight for a position in earnest. The boy accepts the advice and accompanied by his new friend, returns to his home town, works hard and gains the respect of the community.

There are some extremely interesting problems dealt with in telling this story, and Mr. Selwyn is credited with handling the subject in a convincing and at the same time interesting manner. Some of the characters introduced are said to be practically new to the American stage.

Mr. Harris, it is reported, has given the play a scenic mounting complete in every detail.

STOCK, CROP AND FARM NOTES

—After eradicating scabies from the sheep in Kentucky it is now discovered that foot rot, a much worse disease, is causing havoc with the flocks. According to a report made to Commissioner of Agriculture Newman there are over 7,000 sheep infected with the disease in this state.

—A new record price for Burley loose leaf tobacco on the Lexington market was established Wednesday when part of a consignment belonging to Llewellyn White, of Scott county, brought the phenomenal figures of $42 per hundred. So far this tops any price that has been paid for the weed on the Lexington market this season. Several other lots belonging to other growers sold from $34 to $38. Altogether about seven hundred thousand pounds were sold at the Lexington warehouses Wednesday at prices ranging from $4 to $42 per hundred.
